Part C: Short Answer

Answer each question in one or two complete sentences.

1. Why do authors use dialogue in narrative writing?

Authors use dialogue to show what characters are thinking and feeling, to move the plot forward, and to make the story feel more real and lively.

2. Give an example of a sensory detail that describes a sound.

The thunder rumbled loudly across the sky, shaking the windows of the old house. This helps the reader hear what is happening in the story.
